Pay deal must breach Phase Three limits, council staff decide

From Raymond Perman Labour Staff Brighton

Local government officers warned their employers yesterday that they would not settle their pay claim within Phase Three limits, even if thet obliged them to strike.

At the start of the conference At the start of the conference in Brighton of the National and Local Government Officers' Association (Nelgo) the local government grnun, which repre-sents 300,000 white-collar town hall staff, pessed a resolution instructing negotiators not to settle within the pay code. They defied a warning from Mr Glyn Phillips, who leads the negotiat-ing team, that it might mean a strike.

The vote is a further example of the new militancy of Nalgo members. It is likely to be expressed again today when the conference debates an executive emergency resolution. The reso-lution, while recognizing the achievements of the Labour Government, criticizes the TUC for accepting the continnation of the statutory incomes policy, and says that the union will not support any voluntary policy egreed between the TUC and the Government unless it is dis-cussed first within the trade union movement and pays special attention to the public sector.

Relations hetween Nelso end tha TUC have been strained since the union refused to endorse the "social contract" and call off its London strikes. Mr Len Murray, general secre-tary of the TUC, is likely to receive an intolerant hearing if he preaches the virtue of pay restraint when ba eddresses the conference on Thursday.

Nalgo is seeking 20 per cent increases and has based its claim on comparisons with civil own unions, servants and restoring wage differentials over local autho-rity manual workers. Mr William Rankin, assistant general secretary, said clerical staff were not able to take advantage of provisions within Phase Three that were open to manual workers.

Militants will attempt today to overturn Sunday's decision by Nalgo's executive to call ut strikes and overtime bans in London A resolution to be pro-posed by the Merton branch says that ending the action would be a sign of weakness and it should be continued until there is a satisfactory settlemant on the claim of higher London weight ing allowances. The conference of the Con-federation of Health Service Employees will debate nurses' pay and consider its reaction to the request from Mrs Castle, Secretary of State for Social Ser-vices, to call off the action. About 75,000 members are ban-ning overtime and refusing to do clerical and domestic jobs or to stand in for senior staff. There have heen selective strikes also.

The executive's policy on Mrs Castle's appeal was decided last night by 21 votes to 1, but has not been made public io advaoce of the debate. An emergency motion from the floor is expec-ted to call for increased industrial action.

English first on Welsh bilingual road signs

From Trevor Fishlock Cardiff

Bilingual road signs are to be progressively introduced in Wales from today. In the interests of faster reading and road safety, English wording will be placed first.

The principle of bilingual signs was agreed by the Tory government in November, 1972. after the report of the Bowen committee. All that remained was for the Government to was for the Government to adjudicate on the sensitive ques-tion of which language should come first. English and Welsh bave equal validity in Wales under the lew.

The Bowen report recommen-ded that Welsb should be placed first. But the Road Research Laboratory said at the time that bilingual signs with Welsh first took a fraction of a second longer to read. A more detailed study has confirmed that.

Mr Morris, Secretary of State for Wales, said in e Commons written answer yesterday that road signs were designed to instruct, warn and enforce in a readily understood way. The readily understood way. The decision to put English above Welsh should be scen io that light, and was oot a measure of the importanca of the languages.

Mr Terwyn Tomos, joint sec-retary of tha Welsh Language Society, which campaigned for several years for hilingual signs, said: We are very disap-pointed. Welsb is the national anguage of Wales and it is an insult to give it second place in its own country. We shall decide what action to take."

The Bowen report said the case for bilingual signs was substantially one of justice for Welsh. "The chief arguments weish. The other arguments hinge on the placa of Welsh in Wales, on the principle of natural justice for the language. This maintains that Welsh-speaking people are entitled in their arm country to use their their own country to use their mother tongue over the widest range of activities and to do so as of right, not on any test of necessity. We believe this prin-ciple is widely accepted in Wales." Bilmgual signs will cost about E3.300,000 and they will be in-troduced gradually. Tha Gov-ernment will pay for signs on motorways and trunk roads and will share the cost with local-urboxities for signs on other authorities for signs on other roads.

In an effort to achieve uniformity the Government is setting op a committee to advise on the correct form of place names to correct form of place names to he used on signs. It will be headed by Professor T. J. Mor-gan, Professor of Welsh at Uni-versity College. Swansea. England took runs more easily off the Indian bowlers than they have done for a long time in the first Test match yesterday. That this was so was due chiefly to Edrich, who had just reached his eleventh 100 for Bagland when raip stopped play for the day, 25 minutes before tea. Whether there was enough of it for the pitch to play tricks today remains to be seen. If not, India should save the match, which op the form so far they deserve to do. abandoned for the day—there could still be some excitement left, with England pressing for victory. It was cold and miserable again yesterday. Not the aort of weather which Edrich might have chosen to try to reestablish himself in the Test side—on a ground which has never been a lucky one for him and against opponents off whom he had zot previously taken a hundred. He will be 37 on Friday week, the second day of the next Test match at Lord's, yet not many of his 89 first class bundreds can have caused him less bother than this one.

On being recalled to the England On being recalled to the England side, purely as a temporary mea-sure, in 1956, Washbrook made 96. That was against Australia. for his competitive spirit, there was never much danger that that was gone, once it was known that he wanted to play for England again. The selectors would appear to have pulled off a coup in giving priority to a left-hander in their search for someone to reinforce the batting—at any rate against the Indians. Yesterday the Indian spin-ners bowled nothing like as well to Edrich as they usually do. Not long before the rain Edrich twice took a pace down the pitch to Bedi to pull him for a six and a four. So startled was Bedi that the last ball of the same over was a long hop, which was Bedi that the last ball of the same over was a long hop, which Denness honked for four; As a rule it takes England 15 overs, not one, to make 15 runa against Bedi. With Edrich making the pace Denness was able to play himself in hefore doing his own full share of the scoring. When a situation demands quick runs, as it did yes-terday, no one roes after them more terday, no one goes after them more mselfishly than Demess. One or two of his cover drives were heau-tifully fashioned. Whether he will ink he has got enough runs for a Claration first thing this morning may depend to some extent on the westher and on how the pitch looks. Cb 357). However, in the present case, there were two strong grounds ro support the view that the adoption orders were void. (1) They were made without jurisdiction as there made without jurisdiction as there was no power to make a joint adoption order save on the appli-cation of two spouses; and (2) the children's father was not given notice of the proceedings, notwith-standing that his whereabouts were known to the applicants or could readily have been discovered. There was a good deal of dif-ficulty in discovering from the authorities the precise line to be drawn between orders which were nullities and those in respect of which there had been nothing worse than m mere irregularity.

which there had been nothing worse than n merc irregularity. In Dryden v Dryden ([1973] Fam 217) Sir George Baker, President. experienced a similar difficulty when considering the effect of a decree absolute heing espedited without the knowledge of a re-spondent wife, who thereby lost ber right to make an application for financial provision under section 6 of the Divorce Reform Act, 1963. The President held that the decree absolute was tridable the decree absolute was unidable

They were the natural children of the family of the natural parents and so remained at all times until the adoption orders were made. If those orders were to be treated as nullities even without belog quashed by order of a competent court, then the children remained children of their natural parents. However if the adoption ordera (whether void or voidable) re-mained valid until quashed, then the minors ceased to be children of their natural parents until the court should exercise its un-doubled power since the question of the future custody of the minors would bave to be con-sidered in the exercise of the mmrimonial jurisdiction. House of Commons

MR PRIOR (Lowestoft, C) asked the Home Secretery to make a statement on the IRA demonstrations in Loodon during the last few days.

MR ROY JENKINS (Birmiogham, Stechford, Lab)-In the Isle of Wight and io Londoo oo June 7 and 8 e oumher of upporters of the IRA accompanied the tuneral procession of Michael Gaughan. Some of those who took part in this procession and a number of people who took part in a demon-stration in Londoo yesterday wore black berets, dark glasses, and other dark clothing. I understand from the Commissignar of Police of the Metropolis that reports are being submitted to the Director of Public Prosecutions at the carliest possibla moment for consideration of pro-socutions under Section 1 of the Public Order Act, 1936.

Occasions of this kind present great difficulties for the police. Their primary duty is to prerent public disordar and it is e matter of difficult indement to koow what is the best way to prarent a provocative procession from turn-ing into a riot. In fact the demonstrations of the past few days-substantial though is the public reaction to and reougnance for them, feelings which I strongly share-bave not resultad in disorder.

It would not be propar for me to comment further on the possi-hillty of prosecutions. That is not matter for me. But I think it right to say that Io my view what took place is deeply and rightly resented by the overwhelming majority of British opinion. As a propaganda exercise it was wholly coonter productive. Part of the object was no doubt to intimidate. That, I believe, will not succead

I will considar ungently with the Commissioner of Police and other authorities whether any strengthening of law or procedore is necessary. Tha issues are not wholly straightforward, but I can assure the House and the coontry that whatever maosures are necessary to frustrate any snstained campaign of para-military demonstrations will be taken.

Indignation MR PRIOR—The whole House will applaud the statement. The indignation and anger this episode has caused, and that e military sixle funeral should have been organized for e convicted prisoner in the streets of our capital is an affront to the whole nation, and particularly to the families of those soldlers and civillans who have lost their lives in preserving freedom in Northern Ireland. Ho will have our full support in

Ho will have our full support in my measures he feels it necessary o bring forward.

What efforts did he make, or could he have made, to have the hody sent direct to Ireland instead of having it paraded through the streets of London ? Could he also comment on the effect, had the facts heen reported to the Attor-ner General for consideration of MR JENKINS-No deals were made. I issued a statement over a week ago which I think com-manded a lair amount of support and agreemeot—(chaers)—aod I in no way contradict that state.

MR JAY (Wandsworth, Eatter-sea North, Lab)-Does not the 1936 legislation clearly prohibit the wearing of uniforms of private ermies in this country?

MR JENKINS-Yes it does. It raises the question as to what constitutes a uniform. I agree that the common sense of the matter says that the three factors I described in my statament do constitute a noiform.

constitute a nultorm. There was, however, a case in 1972 when the police took names and submitted them to the Direc-tor of Public Prosecutions, and proceedings were not teken, 1 am proceedings were not teken. I am not attempting to judge whather that was right or not, but the police were bound to have that in their minds in deciding, along with other considerations, whather to make arrests as opposed to taking names.

MR DEEDES (Ashford, C)-Can he give a firm assurance that the termination of the Price sis-ters' hungar strike carries oo implications whatever for tha other 30 or so prisoners in this conutry who wish to return to Ireland ?

MR JENKINS-That is really

MR JENKINS--That is really wholly wide of the question I am answering. If Mr Deedes wishes to put down a question on this matter, I will he glad to answer it. MR FLANNERY (Sheffield, Hillisborough, Lab)--It is similar-ly an affront to the dignity of the British people to see massive para-military forces demonstrat-ing, as they did recently in North-arn Ireland, and similarly massiva demonstrations of Orangemen, with pipe and drum bands, end with regaida, 10 the streats of Britain over the weekand. AR ST JOHN-STEVAS (Chelms-ford, C)--While any individual who wishes is entitled to tha proper ministrations of the clergy, the use of a church for the occasion of a public polltical demonstration by the enemies of the United Kingdom falls into a differant category. Will he, on behalf of the Gov-ernment and this Honse, express the hope to the Westmloster Arch-diocesan authorities that this kind of incidem is never allowed to

MR GEORGE CUNNINGHAM (Islington, South and Finshury, Lab)—Will he confirm that neither the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis nor he was asked for, or gave, consent under the 1936 Pahilic Order Act to the wearing of these uniforms P It is right to attach great impor-tance to this first propaganda action of the IRA in London, as the Act does not apply to North-ern Ireland. Provided the Attor-ney Ganeral is satisfied that the purpose is a pollicical one, it would be right that prosecution should

Extension of rent protection to furnished lettings urgent

House of Lords

LORD GARNSWORIHY, Lord in Waiting, moved the second reading of the Rent Bill the main purpose of which, he said, was to extend to the majority of those who lived in rented furnished accommodation the full protection onder the Rent Acts which was already available to unfurnished remants.

The decline in the privately rented sector was adding to the difficulties of those dependant on it. The fact that furnished lettings it. The fact that furnished lettings were not protected constituted e serious hardship. It meant land-tords could domand high remus with impumity. The urgency was acute, since tha knowledge thet tha Governmeur Intended to legislate might well ba a stimulus to landlords to regain possession from furnished tenants before the law came into force. There were already press reports that this was law came into force, mere were already press reports that this was happaning. In these circumstances speed must take precedence over the evolution of a polished piece

MR SHORE—I do not think so. That is not what we intended or how British Airways used the matter. The Governmant have started on Concorde a policy of encouraging as much informed public discussion as they can. As part of that discussion it was incumbent on us to ask British Airways to put forward their best estimate on the financial effects.

MR LIGGINS (Worthing C)

It seems quite possible that the people of the New Stone Age were studying solar cycles more were studying solar, cycles more than a mousand years before Stonehenge was used to captore the rays of the rising midsummer Sun. Dr Jon Patrick, a Dublin archaeologist, believes that a passage grave within a Neolithic cemetery called Newgrange, in Southorn Ireland, has been dell-berately aligned to coincide with the direction nf tha midswinter suncise more than $,000 years ago. ago.

Tha most impressive feature of The most impressive resure or the Newgrange Stone Age site is an enormous, solidly huilt tomb. From the outside it looks like a huge stone mound about 250ft in diameter. It is built of smooth boulders end around its base is a continuous kerb of large slabs. boulders end around its base is a continuous kerb of large slabs. A burial chamber is situated in the centre of tha structure and is entered through a covered stone passageway about 60t long, which gives the name "passage grave" to the tomb. Many of the stones are carved with patterns, fine examples of the artistic achieve-ment of the culture that built the tomb. Dr Partick describa's one particularly fine example on a stone at the entrace to the pas-sage as one of the most impressive pleces of megalithic are ip Europe. But all these fascinating features are present to a less or greater extent in many passage graves dating, from about the same period. What is unique to Newgrange is o structure on the roof of the entrance passage; the "roof hox". Writing in a recent

At last Europe faces up to the social and economic consequences of immigrant labour

"We can't bring the whole world into Europe, ao where ere the limits?" the tense, rather agirated EEC bureaucrat said. "Twenty two million immigrants io the Nine by 1980-that's nue projection. Just to mention the figure sounds ridiculous."

Tho same refraio occurred again and again : io Bonn, The Rague, Berne, Brussels end Paris. There is o mood of quiet desperation. And the lull in immigration brought on by the slackeoing of ecooomic activity in the wake of the oil crisis is being used to justify a sherp tighteoing up of immigration policies.

"The oil crisis was a fortui-tous excuse", an expert from the International Labour Organization explained. "It gave govern-ments, who were uneasy ebout the way things were going, the chaoce to introduce a few filters

It is in Germony that the most definite decision hos been made. On November 23, 1973, the Government announced thet it was suspendiog all immigration forthwith, eod in Boon no ono tries to hide the truth. A senior policymaker said : "The Novemher decision was just a peg to hang things on. It was coming anyway. The basic decision to severely restrict immigration bad elready been made."

The fact is thet for at least the past two years—in somo countries much longer, Switzer-land eod Britain notably—Euro-peao policymakers beve been voicing thair coocern about tho number of immigrants pouring into industrialized Europe. It is was slackening. The coocern arises because industry seems intent on absorbing immigrants, as far into the future es can be seen. That is understaodable: they are cheap, malleable, bard working, oftee shy of unionization, and do iobs that Europeans no logge jobs that Europeans no longer want to do. Europeans no longer and bouses built in the infrastructural costs of ments are also worried because maintaining a large immigrant the traditional Southorn Euro- work force have begun to mount.

pean supplies of immigrant labour are fast drying up and labour is increesingly being pullod in from Africa, the Middle East, the Caribbean aod even Asie.

The risk of social turbulence is the number one fear—a fear that first crystallized as tranquil Holland, Europe's harbour of raciel equality (a reputation well earned by its generous welcom-ing of 300,000 Indonesian refugees in the 1950s), experieoced serious racial clashes in Rotter-dam in 1972. Theo. lest summer. Merseilles erupted ioto a veritable orgy of racially moti-vated killings.

However, there is enother im-portant fector behind the naw policies. It is the dawning realiration of what the teal economic cost of unlimited immigration is. Most European couotrios bare been getting their immigraot labour at sbarply marked down prices. With the exception of most of the Commonwoolth immigrants to Britain and the Wost Iodiao immigrants to Holland and France, immigration in most European countries started as a male only affair: men who were prepared to work long hours, night shifts, live in barracks or doss bouses, and go home for bolidays every two or three yeers. But, by the end of the sixties, it had become obvious that family reunico, with or without the sanctice of the law of the recipient country, was the order of tho day. Although lip service was paid to the idea of going home ono day, the real-ity was that an increasing majority of them were here to stay. been increasing oxponentially. Indeed, if anything, even before the oil crisis, the rate of growth was slackening. tion was not the cheap short cut to prosperity that they bad once thought. Although adult immigrants heve given the recipient economies a windfall bonus (becauso the rearing costs bave been borne by the sending country), schools now have to be built for their children, bospital beds found when they are ill, and bouses built for them to live

Of course, io practice these social provisions hove been pro-vided slowly—hence the still un-cleared bidonvilles in Franco and the estimated 250,000 immigrant children out of school in Germany.

Germany. The economists who only seem to bave the ear of immi-gration policy makers in most Enropean countries, are arguing that because of those infra-structural demands, unlimited immigration would ba infla-tionary. Moreover, more eod more immigrants are oeeded merely to provide for the oeeds merely to provide for the oeeds of immigrants already here. This inflationary contribution of immigration, runs the argumeot, will soon outweigh, if it hos oot dona so already, tha initial positive effect of immigration which held down wages, enabled capital to be used more offect-ively (night shift work for ex-amplo), raised profits aod encouraged new investment.

No matter that there are other achools of thought among informed economists, this is the ooe governments are buying. Indeed, so strongly is the tide run-ning egainst immigration thet short shrift is given to the thesis thet by restricting immigration now, governments may well strengthen the arm of the unions in biddiog up wage demands. Dr Ernst, the senior civil servant in charge of West Ger-many'a immigration policy, says

In order to minimize the risk, however, the German Cebioet bas made the decision to reduce economic growth in order to combat eny extra wage-push inflation that might result from dccreased immigration. The Government's economic advisers estimate thot a reduction of 0.3 per cent in the growth rata might be necessary. The Swiss and Dutch Governments have likewise made clear decisions in principle to trade off economic growth against roduced immigration.

Interestingly, some German experts argue that if wages go up, this will be an odded incentive for German companies to invest overseas. Iodeed the call for capital to go to lebour instead of labour coming to capital, is io danger of becoming capital, is io danger of becoming the clicbé of the day. In Brussels, European Commission officiola are onthusiastically working on this idea as part of a package of proposals on immigration thot Dr Hillary (the Commissioner for Social Affairs) intends to put before the Council of Ministers in November.

In Holland, a country acurely embarrassed by any suggestion that it is restricting immigration for xeaophobic and racialistic reasons, debate is now centred on a Governmant memorandum issued two moutha ago. It has the unusual feature of being issued under the imprimatur of five ministries including that of the 34-year-old Minister of Dovelopment Cooperation, Mr Jan Pronk.

Mr Pronk believes that Holland bas been blacding develop-ing countries of some of their most adventurous and effective manpower and uodermining their ecocomies. Holland must realize, be says, that it cannot go on boying economic growth if it can only be done of the expense of the poor countries (and at the cost of destroying man's babitat too), so to rotard economic emphatically: "Toa economists are divided on this, so we are prepared to take risks. There are always risks." growth is a clear policy of the government. He waots to encour-age soma of Holieod's labour in-tensive industries to go to the tensive industries to go to the Third World countries, if occessary using Ministry of Developmant Cooperation funds to finance part of the restructur-ing of domestic iodustry to make this possible.

There may be widespread admiration io Holland for tho forcefulness and vigour with which the minister argues his case, but thoro is also an awareness of just bow difficult his ideas would be to put ioto practice. "Capital will oot move easily onder these kind of conditions", one of Holland's influential state counsellors told me. In Switzorland, which is gearing up for a roferendum in December which calls for a cut in balf of the immigrant popu-lation, such ideas as Mr Pronk's are sot oven talked about, much less seriously considered as policy nounced them excellent policy. Aod in Bonn, Dr Ernst ex-plains: "German capital in-vests where there is political atahility and relatively Jow wages. This meaos we invest in Spain, Easr Asia, South Africa, aod we would if we could in Eastern Europe. But not in Italy or Turkey. The direction of our overseas investment does not correspond with the aources of correspond with the aources of our immigrant labour supply." It is, of course, a moot point whother Europe can, in fact, suc-ceed in reducing its inflow of immigrant workers. Many, if not most, iodustrialists and occoo-mists, argue that European gov-mists, argue that European gov-erriments are being bopelessly hearing, in 1947; it has been whother Europe can, in fact, sucmists, argue that European gov-ernments are being bopelessly unrealistic. But if Europe does repeated every year since, with-our fail; there is no more sign socceed in limiting the numbers without finding a satisfactory of its being kept now than there way of componsating the coun-tries from which it bas drawn its cheap labour, there is a real donger that it will end up exportwas 27 years ago ; and although, for old times' sake, the annual ceremony will probably take place for enother few years, the ing to them the sociel turbulence fears at bome.

Releasing Hitler's deputy could accelerate a fascist revival Why Rudolf Hess should remain a prisoner in Spandau

The bomb that exploded at a union and other organizations crowded anti-fascist meeting in Brescia, in Northern Italy, recently, killing six people and injuring 79, may help to waken many who appear to have been unaware of the revival of fascism and Nazism in many

Colonel Bird clearly indicates tbat Hess has no interest in re-habilitation. He remaios a con-vinced Nazi and anti-somito, and would do ic all again if be had the chance. Can ono have compassion for a man wbo would be prepared, on his release to advocate the and Mr A. J. P. Taylor in The cle Observer, who have been calling for the release from prison of the most Important living Nazi, Rudolf Hess.

The inspiration and encouragement that Hoss would give ization rights in the popular to the resurgent Nazi and fas- press and Mr Ludovic Kennedy cist movements throughout tho world is the most important factor loft out of the calculotions of these and othor commentators wbo bave joined in the rocent reloase Hess campaign

It seems clear from Colooel Eugene Bird's recent book The loneliest Man in the World that Horse still believes that what he did was right, and maintains an "unrepentant Hitlerism, anti-semitism and batted of man-kind". It also appears from tha film shown receatly on ITV that, far from being a " sick old man," Here: is in acoud hereith and Hess is in good health and Colonel Bird found him to be "an intelligent man . . . never mad or crazy ".

Add one further fact to the above, namely that the Mess necessary to weich exainst this homo has been maintained by his the arguments thet have been wife, Ilse, as a National Socialist shrine for visiting Nazia from all over the world, and a clearer

The danger, of course, is thet we tend to think of the terrible activities of the Nazis as being io tho past. But Hess is not simply a man who was a leading Nazi. Hess is, today, the leading Nezi in the world. Fascism is not simply o movement which existed in the past. Fascism is alive and well and living in Brescia, And in Edmonton, And other places.

If we eccept that fascism and Nazism are not dead, and that the release of the world's lead-ing Nazi could be an encouragement to those who wish to promote a Nazi remaissance, it is

The Roman Cathelic Church in England would also be wise to examine its role in the affair. All Roman Catholics, including convicted bank robbers who starve themselves to death, are entitled to receive the ministrations and due rites of their church. In contemplation or furtherance as a In contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute was immune from action in fort. Broadly speaking this meant that he could not be sued for inducing, or threatening to induce, employees to go on arrise or take other industrial action in breach of their contracts of employment. This immunity is now to be extended to breaches of commercial contracts, even commercial contracts hetween marries who are not themselves con-

Meetings with Frelimo From the Rev Adrian Hastings

Sir, The warm initial meeting be-tween Dr Mario Soares and the leaders of Frelimo in Lusaka is encouraging. Three weeks ago in Lusaka I appealed on both radio and television for Africa and the and television for Alfrica and the new Portugal to approach one another in a really generous spirit and I spoke particularly of Mario Soares and how be had sat beside me at last July's Loedon press conference on Wiriyamu. A few days later I was able to discuss the Mozambique situatioe at some length with seniar Frelimo officials in Dar es Salaam.

Reconciliation can only proceed from a realistic assessment of the present simution, abova all of the present simulation, abova all of the reality of Frelimo--something which has been steadily underestimated in the past. Even the past weeks, while extensive newspaper coverage has been givee to Portuguese statements, little, if any, has been extended to those of Frelimo, notably the Executive Committee's declaration of Awil 27 and Samora Machel's of April 27 and Samora Machel's broadcast of May 3.

Frelimo today is eot only a bead-quarters actually operating as a government in eorthern Mozambique, a trained army of several thousand men and the civilians of the liberated areos, it is also a eetwork of orga-Portugal's great asset at the preseet moment is that, with the ecw regime in Lisbon, decolonization can be iotegrally inked with defascisti-ficatioe at home in a way that peruized groups all across the couptry but particularly strong in the south. All observers are tending to confirm fication at home in a way that per-mins a real partnership between the two leaderships. The longer the delay in reaching agreement the greates the danger that in African eyes the eew regime be identified with the sins of the old. I would appeal to D Soares and his government not to Frelimo's own claim that it enjoys majority support from Cabo Delgado to Lourence Marques. The only possible way of brioging The only possible way of brioging peace and a new government to Mozambique is, then, to work with Frelimo. This means understanding its besic positioo, grounded in the traditioe of Eduardo Moodlane, its first president and one of Africa's most outstanding leaders and a firm Christian. Sources and his government not fo mistake the situation and so lose a unique opportunity to echieve a spiritual recoeccluatioe between Portugal and Africa and to end 400 years of empire not in the dejectioe which had seemed inevitable but in the trust of a common enterprise. Mr Crosland gave some relief to the cities, at the cost of. inordinate increases in many. areas outside them. It has to be said, however, that many of those whose rates have risen so shockingly are still paying less than occupiers of similar property in towns. An aggregate increase of similar dimensions, falling still more beavily on some people no better able to bear it, would have occurred under the original plan, in spire of all the last government's pressure for impossible restraints on council spending. Much local government expendi-ture is fixed far in advance, or required by statute, or grows unavoidably in response to population growth or rising interest rates. The affair is sure to intensify the mood of disillusion with local. government in this country. Stories that the reorganization was accompanied with midue extravagance in respect of overstaffing, golden handsbakes and farewell -banquets are widely current even when exaggerated. At any rate, the reorganization creates a situae plan. The result tion where many catepayers must. But it is not fair that a major and resentment has resulted from the public relations error of separately setting out the charges of the new public water anthorities, without explaining that they are the old water rate, and not an extra imposition.

A great many people in country districts are in no position to meet rate increases which may be very large relative to their incomes. Country rates have been low because the wealth of services provided in a city is absent. The retired-always the first victims of inflation-will suffer particularly. The situation again exposes the unsatisfactory nature of the rates as a tax, falling as they do with insufficient account of the individual's ability to pay, and varying from area to area often for arbitrary reasons. No rearrangement of the rate support grant can fully overcome these defects. Mr Crosland sug-gested last week that the total of government support would have to increase next year. With 60 per cent of council finance already coming from this source, the implications of that for local antonomy are serious. None of the various other ways for councils to raise meney provide any kind of satisfactory alternative.

Finding a solution for Northern Ireland From Projessor Thomas Wilson

Sir, Professor Peter Wiles (June 7) bas raised once more the question of changing the border in Nerthern Ireland, This possibility attracted a. certain amount of atteotien a couple of years ago both in your columns and elegators Professor columns and elsewhere. Professor Wiles, refers in particular to an article hy myself which appeared in the Round Table for January, 1972, and was followed by some correspondence in thit journal to which be contributed. But there was no questise of our preparing jointly a lan along the lines suggested in his letter of June 7. At that time I felt that " the case for altering the border should at for altering the borner should at least be given serious considera-tion": It is, however, of some im-portance to recall the circum-stances. The old Stormont Govern-ment was still in being. A number of important reforms had been made; but proportional representa-tion in the legislature bad not been finally accented and proportional finally accepted and proportional representation in the executive was representation in the executive was only a daring proposal. "Free Derry" was still in being: neither the army nor the police went into this area although social security payments were still provided—and accepted. (Has any other Govern-ernment ever behaved more genar-ously towards a speen of menule who onsly towards a groep of people who repudiated its authority than did Britain at that time?)

their sympathizers elsewhere of a fact that should long have been ob-tious: thet a large majority in the Nerth does not want a united Ire-land. If republican attitudas are modified accordingly, this will be modified accordingly, this will be some gain to set against the evil that has been done. But the in-transigeece of the "loyalists" remains. To convince the world of their attitude to a united Ireland was one thing; to continee to reject power sharing in any form is euchter. In these circumstances it may be right to bring the question of the border back into public dis-cussion at least to the extent of warning the supporters of UDI or the border orack into public dis-cussion at least to the extent of warning the supporters of UDI thar an independent authoritarian "Ulstar", if it could ever be estab-lished at all, would have to be drastically smaller in size. To give such a warning is a very different matter from adopting a policy of the kind recommended with much con-fidence by Professor Wiles. If, indeed, British troops were to be withdrawn and civil war were to follow, all sorts of drastic actioo would be necessary when the British troops eventually returned--with or without the troops of other nations. But we have scarcely reached that situation yet, and we used not take it for granted that we shall de so. Meanwhile we have direct rule and-one must hope--firm and intelligent rule. We must firm and intelligent rule. We must carry on on this basis and coulinge to work for an acceptable and reasonably democratic solution. Yours faithfully,

Sir, A sweater and slacks for a woman, like a sports coat and open-necked shirt for a man, are "casuals". For day-to-day wear in this modern age, especially by the younger generation, they are per-forthy acceptable. But there are many people, in no sense "squares", to whom at times they are not acceptable—at e church service, in a court of justice, on any occasion when some acknowledg-meet of the solemnity or dignity of the proceedings is called for. In courtesy their views should be tespected. Mr Birnberg's young ledy (June 8) bad committed no crime, but was justly rebuked for bad manners. of the Queen. He was 74. Prince Henry William Fred-erick Alhert, the third son of King George V and Queen Mary, was born on March 31, 1900, at York Cottage, Sandringham. Two of his gudparents marked the moment of history at which he was horn. One was Lord Roherts the hero af the hour, who had lately, arrived in South Africa aed relieved Ladysmith. The other was the German Emperor who was emerging from a period of estrangement from the English Royal Family after his telegram to Kruger. In after his telegram to Kruger. In uis chullient, not wholy sincere style ha wrote to Queen Victoria to congratulate her on the high of Prince Henry. "Thope that May and her, boy will prosper, acd that he may add a naw ray of sunshine in the pretty lodge (York Cotrage)." But in spite of these illustrious sponsors, Prince Henry moved, into: a childhood which was secluded and perhaps not greatly different from thet of his well to-do East Anguan contemporaries. He was the first son of a reigning sovereign to go to a private school — at Broadstairs — and then on to Eton. He was in fact the only son of an English King or Queen to go to that school and he was treated without privilege except that he was met by a royal brougham at Slough on arriving for his first term. He was_in Mr. S. Lubbock's Leopold of the Belgians, a chance which was not without importance in the dire days of 1940. In October, 1919, Prince

Henry went up to Cambridge with Prince Albert - the future George VI. The brothers were George VI. The brothers were ooly to stay for a year and while the high spirits and gaiety of university life, immediately after the victory of 1918, found, a ready response in them the influence of Cambridge did not perhaps cut very deep. Prince Henry does not appear to have formed lasting college friend-ships-possibly because of his father's insistence. that he should not live in college but should not live in college but in an ugly little house off the Trumpington Road.

The Army was Prince Henry's choice of career and with two elder brothers between him and the succession he was able — at any rate until the Abdication of 1936 — to follow his career with professional assiduity. He was to prove far more thin a mere ceremonial soldier. On coming ceremonial soldier. Possibly the most important rask of his peblic life came with the end of the war, when it was announced that he was to be the first royal Governor-General of Australia—a position originally destined for his brother the Dake of Kent. Accompanied by the Duchess and their two sons Duchess and their two sons the Duchess and their two sous --Prince William, who was born in 1941, and Prince Richard, whe was born in 1944—they were given an uproarious welcome at Sydney, their arrival coincid-ing with Australie Day. To an extent, the 'Duke experienced' this in Australia, but his straightforward character and unflagging hard work made his term of office conspicuously successful. If he was the first event for a performance on the set royal Governor-General he was also the most mohile Governor-General. There was scarcely a General. There was scarcely a nook or cranny of the country which he had not visited or flown over. As he was obliged to spend much time in Canberra on the official husiness of the Government, he decided to have a specially equipped Avro York to enable him and the Duchess to more friedy round the country. later. The events of 1936 immedi-ately affected the Duke's nosi-tion in the Royal Family. Several finance ministers are flying into Washington early to bold private meetings before the formal committee sessions start on Wednesday. The deputies meanwhile are ironing out the finer points of the proposals.

A hig problem emerging here centres on the collapse of Italy's creditworthiness in international markets and the political troubles that have emerged in Italy over the formulation of new economic policies.

Signor Emilio Colombo, the Italian Treasury Minister, called for a Group of Ten meeting for tomorrow night, but it now seems doobtful if this will take place. BIS warning on Eurocurrencies

By Melvyn Westlake

The Bank foc International Settlements yesterday added its voice to the chorus of warnings about the potential threat facing the Eurocurrency market from its use as a vehicle for the largescala recycling of oil revenues.

The danger derives from the fact that borrowing countries are likely to need long term funds, whila oil-exporting nations will wish to keep their investments liquid, the BIS says their prime lending rates. But few bankers in New York are in its 1974 annual report, just published.

prepared to predict that a down-ward trend in rates has started. The bank reports a vigorous growth in the Eurocurrancy market in the opening three months of this year, to a level equivalent to $170,000m, com-pared with $155,000m at the close of 1973 and $105,000m at the end of 1972. This caution is largely based

Financial institutions may be reluctant to see their balance reinctant to see their balance sheets over-inflated by the deposits from a small number of large depositors—particularly as the ready outlet for the fuods may be at longer-term than the deposits, and a considerable "maturity transformation" as funds pass through the market. Meanwhile Italy's grave

The dollar component alone rose $26,000m in 1973. These increases represent the largest yet recorded. The rapid growth of the market last year is partly attributed by the BIS to the greater use of roll-over credits (on which interest rates are adjusted periodically) and to loan syndication (a technique which consists in sbaring-out a loan between a large number of Sears currently does not bold any sbares in Nottingham but the board and various family trusts bold about 25 per cent of the equity. No other boldings total more than 10 per cent.

The bid is partly in equity and partly in cash and pots a value of 72p on each Nottingham sbare on the hasis that Sears is offer-ing two of its own shares— standing at 31p yesterday—and 10p in cash for each Nottingham share.

This compares with e price of 46p for Nottingbam in the stock market last night, the hid having escaped the market rumours that have beset many cecent takover situations. In addition, Sears is offering 65p in cash for each 51 nominal of the $12m convertible un-secured loan stock 1993,98 of Nottingham. The offer is condtional upon its not being refer-red to the Monopolies and Mergers Commission and upon Sears sbareholders approving the issue of new shares.

Gift tax: overseas models for the Chancellor to study

Delay in announcing details of the new gift max imposed with effect from the date of its an-nouncement. on March -26 hes been the cause of much adverse comment in these columns and elsewbere and surchy evidencos one of the unacceptable faces of sovernment. Its Imposition by a Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer who has apparently felt com-pelled to make ritual, if anachronistic, pronouncements about soaking the rich may have given the impression that the United Kingdom is in the van of fiscal progress when in reality—if this be any consolation—we are one of the lest countries in Europe or without an instrument in writing, without adequate con-sideration in movey or money's worth passing from donee to donor." "Disposition of proof the lest countries in Europe to introduce such a tax. Of the EEC countries, only Luxembourg and the United Kingdom do not levy gift tax and the majority of those coun-tries levy other f rims of capital taxenon death duties, and capital gains tax in additien. Five of the nine also impose e wealth tax.

Treasury figures

However, if we lag hehind most of Europe in the number of taxes on capital that we levy, wa lead the field in the amount of capital taxes paid per head of the population: the latest available figures, given by e Treasury spokesman in the Com-mons, show that in 1971 the citi-zens of the United Kingdom paid £10 per head, those of Swaden £8, West Germany £6 and Italy and Franca £2. Since we are one of the last

Since we are one of the last countries to introduce gift tax and even if harmonization is nor tha keynote of all Government policies, it is to be hoped that we shall adopt some of the better features of similar taxes elsewhere. We already have a claim to having some of the most com-plex fiscal legislation in the world and should seek to avoid yet more convoluted legisletion and cumbersome administration.

Comparison of the taxes on Australia and the United Statos gifts levied in other countries a single scale applies to all gifts may give some guidance as to and to all donees, the rate of the sort of tax that can he duty payable being determined expected in this country. Exceptional parsimony

Swedish gift tax rates reflect the high incidance of taxation there—from 5 per cent on gifts of Kr100 (£10) to 65 per cant on gifts to Kr5m (£431,000) to family and from 7.6 per cent to 72 per cent on gifts in excess of Kr1m (£96,000) for gifts to non-related persons.

Total dividends were HK$0.50 per stock unit; up 40% on the 1972 adjusted figure of HK.50.36. By the end of 1973 stockholders' funds had risen by 154% from HK$573 million in 1972 to HK$1,458 millioo, mainly as a result of incorporating the net assets of two acquisitions, Theo. H. Davies & Co. Ltd and Reunion Properties Co. Ltd., and transfers to reserves. The net asset value per stock unit was HKS11.21 at 31st December, 1973, an increase of 120% over the 1972 adjusted figure of HK$5.09.

The 1973 profit of HK$16.7 million from Theo. H. Davies & Co. Ltd, has not been consolidated in the 1973 accounts; Reunion Properties Co. Ltd's mine month's figures have been included.

Following free scrip issues of two for five in May and one for one in November, the issue of 15.7 million new stock units in the two acquisitions (including free scrip ismed), and the issue of 1.8 million stock units to converting Warrant holders, issued capital at year end reached HK 5781 million.

The group has ready access to loternational sources of finance and during the year-raised medlum and long term funds of HK$165 million in Europe through guaranteed notes.

to grow and show profit improvement during 1973. We been ordered. have reorganised and re-grouped various activities and several changes in names of subsidiary and associated companies occurred during the year, to reflect our micrests more accurately.

In April 1973 we injected HK595 million of our assets in certain smaller trading, industrial and real estate companies into Jardine Industries Ltd, now a listed subsidiary. In October Jardines principal ship-owning subsidiary, The Indo-China Steam Navigation Co. Ltd was reorganised as a Hong Kong company (having been registered in the United Kingdom since 1881).

- Jardine Fleming & Co. Ltd, our merchant banking joint venture, have played a leading part in the local and regional financial scenes. Other financial services offered through associates include hire purchase finance and consumer credit, share registration, money broking, computer bureau services, factoring and stockbroking, Jardine Securities Ltd, the investment holding company in which our interest is over 40%, increased their dividend distribution in 1973 by 18%.

raw materials continue to maintain a healthy share of the Hong Koog market. Our engineering subsidiary, The Jardine Engineering Corporation Ltd cootinued to are major contracts and will be closely connected with the forthcoming Mass Transit Scheme in Houg Kong. We were well represented at the British Trade Fair in Poking in March 1973 and at the hi-anoual fairs in Kwangchow; our husiness with China continues to TROSPER.

The Airways Division had an excellent year. Our insurance interests, including Lombard insurance Co. Ltd and Chinese International Underwriters Ltd, have shown good growth. Hong Kong Security Ltd. our subsidiary in the security field , have a major share of the Hong Kong market.

Real estate developments and investments progressed satisfactorily during the year.

Japan. Our Japanese subsidiary, Jardine, Matheson & Co. (Japan) Ltd. had a record year: Our joint venture company, MacMillan Jardine (Japan) Ltd. had a successful year with improved domand for wood products, and our joint venture with Alfred Dunhill continued to do well.

Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand. Jardines interests in these three countries have been operated for many years through our subsidiary, Jardine Waogh Ltd. In May 1973 this company was re-structured and changed its came to Jardino Matheson & Co. (South East Asia) Ltd which is quoted on the Singapore and Kusia Lumpur Stock Exchanges. At the same time a rights issue raised HK$128 million for the company's expansioo programme. This company has strengthened its management and substantially increased its investments in Singapore and Malaysia.

In Thailand our traditional importing business was sold and our activities consolidated in the manufacture and supply of air cooditioning and in developing specific new ventures.

Indonesia. Our representative office in Jakarta has helped to find investments in Indonesia, and with associates we have commitments in two projects - a. first-class hotel and a 20-storey office development.

Australia and the South Pacifie. Jardine Matheson & Co.(Australia) Pty Ltd were affected by the weakness in the property market, but our property assets are well situated to benefit from future improvements in the real estate market. Our associated company Fleetways (Holdings) Ltd showed improved earnings in the second half of 1973. Flinders Shipping Co. Ltd had a Hong Kong. United Kingdom. In the Spring of 1973 Matheson & Co. Ltd acquired Reunion Properties Co. Ltd. The net assets of the company have been brought into the accounts oo the basis of an independent valuation by Jones, Lang, Wootton. Reunion, which was a listed company on the London Stock Exchange, have a pertfolio of first-class commercial buildings and sites mainly in the City and cootral areas of Loodon. Mathesoo's other activities prodoced satisfactory profits and their diversification programme has continued.

Future Prospects . Despite the unsettled worldwide situation, Jardines are in a healthy position to trade profitably, and we are now well involved in natural resources - particularly in the production of wood products, rubber, palm oil and sugar. We also intend to participate in the rapidly expanding oil industry in Sooth East Asia, through exploration and the supply of related services.

With our wide spread of investments around the Pacific, and a diversified yet balanced husiness, Jardines have the management and financial resources to continue expanding and to take advantage of the many opportunities which will prescot themselves in this fast growing area. The recent oil crisis and worldwide inflatioo make forecasting difficult, but nevertheless we anticipate further earnings growth . io 1974.

The VICTORY Insurance Company Limited

MR. C. J. BAKER'S STATEMENT

The Fifty-fourth Annual General Meeting of The Victory Insurance Company Limited will be held on 25th June, 1974 at the Head Office of the Company, Victory House, Castle Hill Avenue, Folkestone, Bt 12 noon. The following are excrects from the statement of the Chairman, Mr. C. J. Baker, LLB., B. Sc. (Econ.) F.I.A., A.C.I., circulated with the Report and Accounts for the year ended 31st December, 1973.

Futura Expansion In my Statement last year I outlined the Company's fundamental elm to develop end expand our reinsurance services on e profitable basis, Expansion of our business pre-supposes a matching financial structure to provide the necessary margin of solvancy. This will be supplied by progressive increases in the share capital and the first increase took place in 1973, when the issued cepital was raised by £750,000.

The Company's management and administration have been strengthened to enable us to achieve these aims end, at the same time, to provide e more comprehensive end effective service both to companies and brokers. Positive steps were taken when General Insurance treatles were re-negotiated in the autumn of 1973, and the results of our efforts will be seen in our 1974 Accounts, which will at the end of 1973 has resulted in a deficit of £129,000, virtually the whole of which relates to the Australian subsidiary.

> Fire and Accident Non-Proportional Account

The Non-Proportional Account continues to suffer the effects of escalating claims costs in respect of 1968 and prior years. We have agein strengthened the fund to allow for the de-veloping pattern of liebilities,

We believe that our provisions for incurred but not reported claims have been realistically estimated end the fund at the close of the year now exceeds £10,000,000. We are encouraged that the more recent underwriting years appear to be responding well to the corrective measures taken by our underwriters to establish an improved rating basis.

Life Account

The development of the Life Account continues, with new sums assured retained by the Group rising to £146 million compared with £127 million last year. For the first time, new ennual premiums exceeded £1 million.

The range of services we offer continues to. increase. We have written over £11 million of single premium reinsurances during the year and, with the growing consciousness of the need to provide Group Life and Widows benefits, there has been en increasing demand for our reinsurance facilities in that field elso.

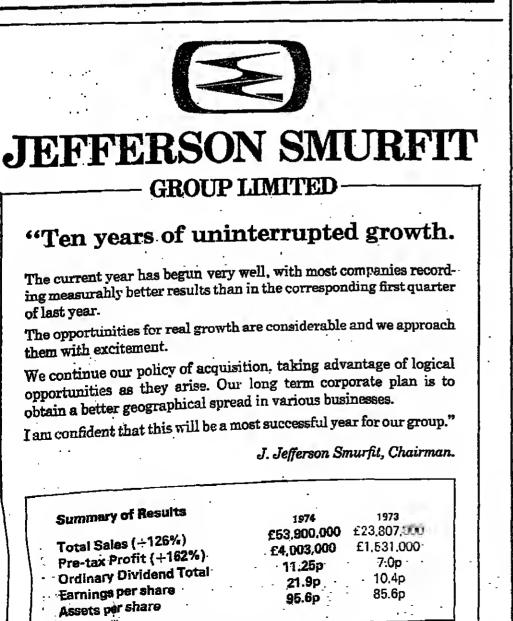

The continued expansion of our activities is reflected in the increase in the Fund from £2,987,000 to £4,727,000. The statutory valuation revealed a surplus of £147,000 which is being camed forward within the Fund.

Fire and Accident Proportional Account The eccounting change in respect of our Fire and Accident Proportional business to which I referred last year has been put into effect, end the accounts for each calendar yeer are now being kept open for a twenty-four month period. The re-closing of the 1972 year 1970 was closed for the first time and e surplus of £55,000 hes emerged. However, the davelopment of Ilabilities from previously closed years continues to give us cause for concern. We have therefore retained the profit emerging from 1970 and in addition have transferred £50,000 from the Profit end Loss Account as e further strengthening of the fund. This now totals £1,855,000, equal to 179% of premiums.

Market Outlook - Ganeral Insurance in those markets, including London, where General Insurance business hes shown improved results in recent years, over-capacity is now leading to demends for relaxation of terms and conditions, and there is evidance of e slackening in the application of sound underwriting principles. In the United Kingdom, fire wastegs figures have increased very markedly in 1973 and it cannot be taken for granted that the improved results of recent years will continue

As professional reinsurers we give maximum support to all the forces in the market working to bring about e belenced rating structure, enabling insurers and reinsurere alike to earn en adequate return for the services they provide in the international market.
